

Danielle Senour is a Technology Consultant at EY, specializing in the Telecommunications, Media & Entertainment, and Technology (TMT) sector with a focus on product strategy and customer experience. Her expertise is marked by a successful track record in guiding products from concept to market, underscored by her strategic acumen and innovative approach.

In addition to her professional accomplishments, Danielle is a board member of The WICT Network: Greater Philadelphia Chapter and an engaging podcast host of their Level Up series - a show dedicated to empowering and educating their membership base. Danielle's influence extends to the TEDx stage, where she has facilitated conversations that spark innovation and drive change. Her multifaceted career at EY and beyond showcases her commitment to shaping the future of technology with forward-thinking solutions and people-centric growth.