

A catalyst for data-driven transformation, Anna Battugs merges analytical rigor with strategic vision to redefine operational excellence. At Spectrum, she optimizes multi-million-dollar business processes, unifies cross-functional collaboration, and builds scalable processes.

Her journey began at Charter Communications in 2017, where she joined as a Data Analytics Intern from the University of Denver, where she earned her degree in Political Science, moved on to her Law Degree and holds a master's in data science. Today, as a manager, she champions innovation—designing tools, refining processes, and mentoring teams to bridge the gap between data and actionable growth strategies.

Anna is passionate about elevating women in tech through data literacy coaching and advocates for leadership that prioritizes both people and precision. She embodies the global mindset and believes in the power of people and data to shape the future.
