

With over 25 years of experience in telecommunications and fiber optics, Alaina Nash is deeply passionate about delivering high-quality communication services and advanced connectivity to communities across America. As a Sr. Territory Manager for Corning Optical Communications, she partners closely with the nation's leading MSO carrier networks. By aligning best-in-class optical solutions with the fastest-growing MSO networks, she helps accelerate connectivity for families, friends, and neighbors nationwide. Her core passion is expanding the rapidly growing fiber-optic infrastructure across the country, and her commitment to customers is driven by a strong belief in working with the very best companies to deliver superior products and services that meet evolving network needs. A seasoned entrepreneur, Alaina has founded and successfully exited three companies, reflecting her drive to innovate and deliver meaningful, results-oriented solutions that bring people together in an increasingly divided world. She thrives on building long-term partnerships and fostering collaboration, all in support of a connected future powered by Corning's world-class innovations. Outside of work, Alaina enjoys spending time with her two children, Jackson (20) and Harper (18), and their two dogs, Kiera and Pua and their fish "Splash". Her interests include hiking, paddling, fly-fishing, networking, and community volunteering. Being an active member of WICT is one of her greatest honors, and she is truly delighted to be part of the organization!
